

Dal and Anu Singh wanted a name of their fish and chip shop that reflected the traditions and history of the village. The best name came from one of the village's finest traditions, Harry Merryweather, who came up with the Frackle Fryers and was presented with a fish supper for two.